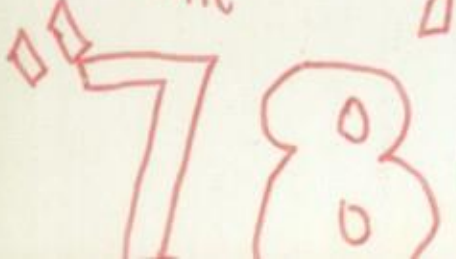
Lori, aaooo...
Twelfth grade didn't really seem like twelfthe grade. I think we had too much fun! because our grades didn't turn out to satisfying. Remember all the times we had fun, remember me by those ~~and~~ but not, by the unpleasant things that have happened to our relationship. Babe, we are one step to being free from our problems, please don't worry about me ever leaving you because I want. I dont think I could if I tried, you know? Now do I have to worry about you?! Keep holding on to our dreams, dont let them slip past you. We have alot to look foward to in our future.... Never the less your a "foxy ass" little broad and I don't want to loose you.



Remember, the foot ball and base ball games you want to, to watch me, I'll never foget you for that. I hope I didn't let you down when I played. at least we got to C.I.F's. Just think they wouldn't have made it without me!!

The future holds many experiences to come. It is unknown and vague to all. We will venture into the different possibilities of what we, the staff, forsee for the future. You might interpret this as some sort of science fiction theme—it is in a sense. This is our interpretation of IMAGES OF THE FUTURE. However, keep in mind that this is merely speculation...

ASSISTANT CHIEF RETIRE

Mr. Joseph Torres

Joseph Torres took leadership at Montgomery High during turbulent times, September, 1970. It was the year that American troops expanded the Vietnam war by sweeping into Cambodia. It was the year when National Guard troops fired point blank into a crowd of students—students who were protesting this war—at Kent State University. Thirteen students were shot, four of them dead. It was high times for one political radical, Angela Davis, and for one convict who became famous, George Jackson. It was also the year that Richard Nixon placed the "plumbers" on the White House payroll.

The nation's unrest spread onto our own high school campus, then meet for half-day sessions at Mar Vista High. Many students worried about their fathers, brothers, or relatives in a combat war zone far away. Others worried about the military draft—the draft that they would quickly have to come to grips with soon after school. Chicanos walked out of the classrooms to demonstrate against what they believed to be a repressive Anglo dominated institution, unconcerned with their hopes, aspirations, and educational needs. We were into the height of the drug scene, and it was not uncommon for a student to pass out in class from an overdose. Fadish innovations characterized education, bringing uncertainty and loss of direction to teachers, administrators, and parents in regards to their purpose and role in our school. This grew into resignation, hopelessness, doubt, and yet for some it grew into deep anger.

What kind of man is Joseph Torres, the man who brought us through these fitful beginnings? As a teenager during the Great Depression, he pushed boxes through the apricot orchards earning twenty-five cents an hour as sole support of his family. Only he could get a job because he spoke english. He was a boy who attended a government Indian school in San Bernadino and worked himself through three years of college then went ino the armed forces during World War II. (He was to return and complete his education under the G.I. Bill.) From these humble origins he worked up to middle class professional status in one of the wealthiest countries of the world.

It was this past that taught him to cherish the values of hard work, order, security, duty, and loyalty. These values became his anchor in the restless sea in which Montgomery High was launched.

Mr. Torres, you kept the ship from going aground. For that, we say, "Many thanks." Our love will be with you in those retirement years. May they be years of peace.

Mr. Jerry Griffith

Mrs. Doris Bilben

Mrs. Bilben can literally be found almost anywhere on campus. She smiles a great deal and loves to give advice on practically any topic. For twenty-two years she has worked in our district and for eight years, she has worked with us personally. She loves Montgomery and the Aztecs. "It's the best place to work at. The composition of the student body shows a cross-section of America. The dedicated faculty adds to the general good-will of the school. The openness...the comradery...the cooperation—it all makes up Montgomery." Nevertheless, she would like to see a number of changes in our school. She would like to see (1) Montgomery establish traditions that are very meaningful to the students, (2) all the students know the words to our alma mater, and (3) she would like to see the entire student body united in cheers that invokes pride and spirit for our school. As our well-known Assistant Principal, she states, "I'm very proud and fortunate to have been at Montgomery since it opened. I'll miss the young folk, the routines, the contacts, and the professional people."

MOONS CIRCLING 2 PLANETS VARY GREATLY IN SIZE

The moons of Jupiter and Saturn vary widely in size. Some are tiny things, others are larger than the Earth's moon and even the planet Mercury.

For comparison, Mercury is 3,032 miles in diameter, the Moon 2,159 miles.

The diameters of the Jupiter and Saturn satellites are:

Jupiter — Amalthea, 150; Io, 2,660; Europa, 1,895; Ganymede, 3,275; Callisto, 3,105; Leda,.1.3-8.5 (estimate); Himalia, 110; Lysithea, 3.7-20 (estimate); Elara, 50; Ananke, 3.7-17 estimate); Carme, 5-25 (estimate); Pasiphae, 5-28.5 (estimate); Sinope, 3.7-22 (estimate).

Saturn — Janus, 187 miles; Mimas, 300; Enceladus, 390; Tethys, 745; Dione, 715; Rhea, 900; Titan, 3,600; Hyperion, 187; Iapetus, 1,120; Phoebe, 125.

VOYAGERS PROBE COPY OF SOLAR SYSTEM

Moons of Saturn, Jupiter excite scientists

By BOB CORBETT
TRIBUNE Science Writer

They all have exotic names — Io, Callisto, Ganymede, Europa, Titan Janus, Tethys, Dione, Rhea, Hyperion.

Straight out of ancient mythologies, these are the names given to some of the satellites or moons of Jupiter and Saturn.

They may also prove to be the keystones of a more modern understanding of just how the solar system came into being.

Although given second billing to their enormous parent planets, these 23 satellites, perhaps 24, are an important part of the current explorations of Voyagers 1 and 2 to Jupiter, Saturn, maybe Uranus and then on into interstellar space.

Revolving around their giant companions, they are "very much like small copies of our own solar system," according to Dr. Torrance Johnson, a member of the Voyager team and an expert in satellites.

In fact, Johnson said in a recent interview, it is possible that our solar system may actually have been part of a two- or three-star combination that just quite didn't make it.

Such binary or trinary systems now seem to be the rule rather than the exception among the stars that cloud our skies.

All Jupiter needed, he said, was just a little more mass to turn it into a burning star like the sun. Even now, he noted, Jupiter emits more radiation than it receives from the sun. Recent evidence indicates that Saturn has the same condition, he said.

If so, he indicated, then maybe the satellites of Jupiter and Saturn formed in much the same manner as the major planets around the sun.

Certainly the largest of these satellites compare in size to the planets. Saturn's Titan and Jupiter's Ganymede and Callisto are all larger than Mercury. Io and Europa, both satellites of Jupiter, are about the same size as the Earth's moon.

In addition, Johnson said, the conditions under which these satellites were formed may more truly represent the early, primordial state from which the solar system evolved than do the inner planets like Mars, Earth, Venus and Mercury.

Their parent planets are still shrouded in large gaseous clouds consisting mostly of hydrogen and helium, the original stuff of the solar system. In fact, scientists aren't really sure that Jupiter and Saturn have any real solid cores. That's one of the mysteries the Voyager probes hope to clear up.

Johnson expects that the Voyager investigations of the satellites of Jupiter and Saturn will reveal some "very different objects" than ever before encountered.

In fact, he said, it is possible that the giant satellite of Saturn, Titan, may harbor some primitive form of life.

Previous studies have indicated, he said, that Titan has a large atmosphere, at least bigger than that of Mars and perhaps approaching that of the Earth. That atmosphere, he noted, is made up mainly of methane, ammonia and hydrogen — the same that has been postulated for the early embryonic Earth.

It is out of this kind of atmosphere, biochemists have argued, that the amino acids necessary to create the proteins (the basic building blocks of all life) were made.

It's possible, Johnson said, that given the atmosphere of Titan that "the conditions are right for some type of organic chemistry to be going on" on the satellite's surface.

Other satellites, he said, may hold similar mysteries. Jupiter's Io seems to be dominated by large clouds of metallic atoms — sodium, hydrogen and potassium. Ganymede and Callisto, the two largest of Jupiter's satellites, seem to be very light for their size, he said.

Johnson said this could mean that they have large liquid water oceans that have been covered by relatively thin layers of ice.

"It is a real possibility that we will be seeing very different objects," Johnson said.

In any event, he said, the satellites will be a lot more visually spectacular then our own moon. Most of them, he said, will be many times brighter than the moon and are expected to have several different and highly colorful aspects to them.

The Voyager spacecraft are expected to take a close look at the major satellites of both planets in their investigations of the larger bodies.

Jupiter has 13 known moons. In recent months, astronomers at the California Institute of Technology believe they may have detected a 14th satellite, but this is still not confirmed. Saturn has 10 moons in addition to its spectacular rings, which some scientists believe may be the residue of another moon that broke up.

In any event, Johnson and other scientists are hoping that the Voyager studies of the Jupiter and Saturn satellites may provide them with an extra bonus.

"It may be," Johnson said, "that we'll be getting two other solar systems for free."

Galaxy camera finds secrets

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — A powerful new astronomical camera in Australia promises to give man a better look into the depths of the universe.

The remarkable sky camera on Sliding Spring Mountain near Coonabarabran is already making discoveries, and astronomers say it may offer an idea of the shape of the universe.

The telescope is British and operated in Australia by astronomers from the Royal Observatory in Edinburgh.

Its technical name is the United Kingdom 1.2-meter-aperture Schmidt telescope, and it combines high quality optics, automatic guidance systems and special techniques for handling the photographic plates that have already recorded millions of the fainter galaxies for the first time.

For the past three years, the telescope has been engaged in a survey of the southern skies to match the famous survey of the northern heavens carried out by the Schmidt telescope at Mt. Palomar in California after World War II.

"Exciting discoveries, ranging from extraordinary stars nearby in our own Milky Way to faint galaxies at the edge of the observable universe, are being made in Australia," said Dr. R.D. Cannon of the Royal Observatory.

"Among the recent discoveries are a gigantic galaxy, nicknamed the Seashell, which contains more gas than any other known (100-billion times the mass of our sun) and an apparently insignificant dim patch of light in the constellation Carina which has turned out to be one of our Milky Way's nearest neighbors in extragalactic space."

The Carina discovery is a dwarf galaxy, a conentration of several thousand very faint stars about 500,000 light years away. Only six galaxies of this type were known previously and the Carina dwarf is the first one to be identified for over 20 years.

As our neighbor it can provide clues to the different ways in which stars are born and evolve and, said Cannon, "ultimately help us to understand our own sun, its past history and its future."

Cannon said the sky survey is being used to find extraordinary types of stars, to select those galaxies with one-in-a-million peculiarities and to locate galaxies and quasars at the edge of the universe.

"One of the most fruitful methods of research in astronomy is to search for extremes — the faintest star, the largest galaxy, the most distant quasar — in order to test accepted theories to their limits." he said.

Spacesuit may save child

HOUSTON (UPI) — David celebrated his 6th birthday yesterday with the hope that space-age technology soon may let him leave the sterile "bubbles" which provide the germ resistance his body lacks.

David's birthday present was a spacesuit, a miniature of the kind worn by America's lunar astronauts.

David, whose last name has been withheld, was born with an immunity deficiency which has forced him to live in germ-resistant "bubbles" whether he is at home or in Texas Children's hospital for treatment.

Now his doctors hope the spacesuit will provide new freedom for the dark-haired, brown-eyed boy when it is ready in the next few weeks.

"We had hoped David would have tried out the spacesuit before this birthday, but there were minor problems and it was returned to NASA for reworking," a hospital spokesman said.

He is tentatively scheduled to test the suit, which has been in the works for months, in October.

David, who celebrated his birthday at home with "sterile" cake and only a few friends and family, is reported to be very excited about visiting the woods, beach and other remote places he has never seen.

Despite his handicap, hospital spokesmen say David continues to develop at above-average rates.

Using a home "bubble" and a special van, he has alternated six weeks at home and six weeks in the hospital since he was 3 months old.

FAMILIAR FACES . . .

The Keyettes held a homecoming alumni reception and nobody came home—at least not many. Where have all the Aztecs gone? They're all endeavoring to make their dreams a reality. And what are their dreams? Perhaps they're the same as yours and mine. It won't be long before you go out endeavoring to make your own dreams a reality. There's a chance that you might not even attend your own alumni reception. What does the future hold for upcoming alumni receptions? Seniors, tune in next year—come to YOUR homecoming—and find out for yourself.

Mechanized Marching

What will the future hold for marching units? Perhaps they won't march at all, but stand in place as a conveyor belt moves them down the parade route. Imagine the band playing moog synthesizers instead of instruments. Could you conceive of the letterettes carrying neon letters that flash on and off. Suppose the flag poles were programmed to do the routines without any assistance from the girls. The drill team might possibly be connected to electric timing devices to ensure togetherness in their routines. Of course this is pure speculation, but let's hope that future Aztecs will have as much style and class as the marching Aztecs of 77-78.

This year, the Drill Team kept up the "Las Aztecas" tradition by representing Monty in numerous competitions here in California. Marching in the Autumn Band Review, the girls showed style and brilliance as they captured the 1st place trophy. The girls also earned the highest specialty score at El Primero. Diana Dicks, the team's captain, was also recognized for her enthusiastic performance and her winning smile as the parade's first place captain. The "Las Aztecas" marched to victory a third time at Bonita Vista half-time competition where they took their 2nd sweepstakes award. The "Las Aztecas" have been a continual source of pride and enthusiasm here at Montgomery.

. . . MARCH ON

In the proud tradition of Montgomery High School, the Marching Aztec Band and attached units have experienced a fantastic year. It began with the Autumn Band Review where the band took 3rd place. Then on to Fallbrook where 2nd place was their reward. Next came a milestone in Aztec History, the El Primero Band Review. Here the band and attached units swept up a total of seven trophies in Montgomery's name. Included in this was 1st place and a Musical Excellence Trophy that the band obtained for having the highest music score in the entire parade. This was the first year that any school had ever earned so many awards at El Primero. The next event for the Marching Aztecs was Bonita Vista Halftime Competition. This was the second year that the band had competed in this event and it proved worthwhile as they captured another 1st place and outpowered excellent bands such as Castle Park and Helix High School. The flag corp, which had never been in a halftime competition before, surprised everyone by obtaining the 2nd place trophy. The band also entered one of the most prestigious events in the state of California, the Long Beach Band Review. Although there was very steep competition at this parade, the band still went away with a 5th place trophy. The Marching Aztecs have made Montgomery High a well respected school in Southern California in a very short amount of time and we hope that they will have continued sucess in all their endeavors. We're proud of you Aztecs!

The band concludes their show.

Just a little bit more . . .

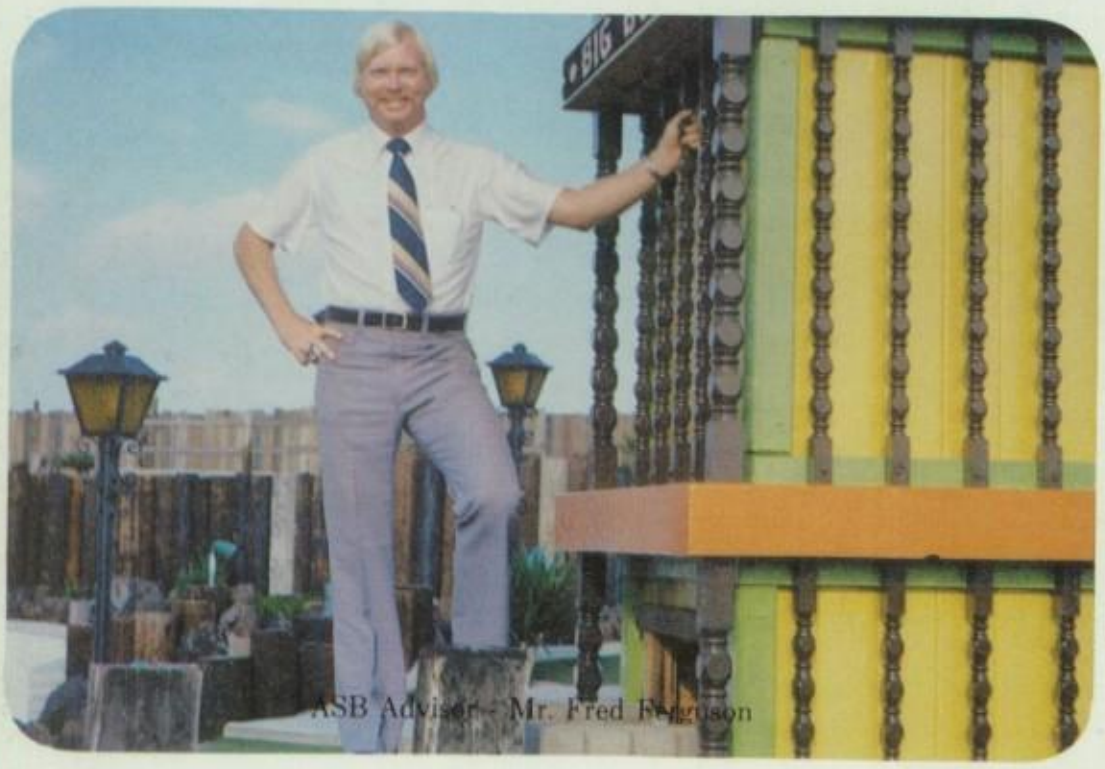
This year's ASB have met the challenges involved in organizing a program of activities for the students here at Montgomery. From the first kickoff of football season to 50's Week, the ASB is actively involved in making sure that the students enjoy their years at Montgomery. Spirit Week, Winter Week, and Homecoming were just a few of the tremendously successful activities sponsored by the ASB. The reason that this year's school functions have been well received is because of the many hours of hard work and preparation that the officers and commissioners have spent at school and on their own time.



ASB Adviser - Mr. Fred Ferguson

Innovation is the key to success in any endeavor. One of the innovative ideas that the ASB created was Olympic Week in which students participated in a tug of war contest and tricycle race around the football field. The ASB also initiated a plan for the beautification of the campus. These are some of the ways that the ASB imparts a break to the daily routine of "reading, riting, and rythmatic".

But what will ASB be like in the future? Let us examine the possibilities. Will we still have varsity football as the main high school sport, or will it have degenerated into amusement such as video ping-pong? What will happen to pep assemblies? Will the ASB hand each student a red, white, and blue "spirit pill" at the door? All of this is in the realm of possibility but only if we allow it to happen. One thing is for sure, without active student support, there will be no ASB long before these things can happen.

FALL SPORTS

In the year 2002, will our cheerleaders still be true?
Will they jump and scream and yell, when a game is
Not played well?
Will they keep the Aztec spirit, or just sit around
And hear it?
Will they hold the Aztec pride, when glory
Goes to the other side?
I feel we don't have to worry 'bout this Story coming true,
For our cheering squad's the best in the north,
East, south, and west.
They kept their pride and glory and added to Our story.
And now I introduce to you our best, our spirited,
Our loud and great,
Our Aztec cheerleaders of '78.

The '77-'78 Varsity Cheerleaders can be given credit for the transformation of many calm and quiet Montgomery students into a huddling mass of fired-up, screaming, victory-loving rowdies. In order to spread their infectious spirit, they practiced very hard during the long, hot days of summer. When summer ended their practicing continued. In addition to practicing, they also made posters and tags for the teams that defend the Aztec Pride.

With Rhonda's leadership and the support of their advisor, Pat Samples, the Varsity Cheerleaders combined their spirit to give the Aztecs all the support possible to go on to victory.

CHEERS TO THE FUTURE

GLADIATORS OF THE GRIDIRON

The Aztec Varsity football team of '77-'78 was well known for their outstanding offense this year. They had one of the best offensive lines in San Diego, anchored around returning all-leaguer Rodney Turner, who was supported by Billy Harper, Richard Baumman, David Aranzubia, and Brian Kuehn. Aztec offense is highlighted by the running of Mike Abas, Darnell Bey, and Frank Orlett. Junior quarterback, Bruce Tomlinson, was good in passing attack with the help of receivers Lonnie Green, Alex Guinto, and Dale Mullins. The offensive line was rounded off by tighedend John Zakosky, known as one of the most vicious blockers in the league. Highlighting the Aztec defense was all C.I.F. candidate Ricardo Guinto; known for his vicious tackling. All league candidates, Gil Gonzales, Brian White, Scott

Wish I could have played football this year but that guy screwed it up for me, R.C.

Hazelton, and Clint Sykes gave the Aztec team depth and strength. Veteran Blaine Jasmund was slowed up by an early season knee injury, but came back to play inspirational football as the season progressed. The offense was led by Head Coach Jerry Hombs and Coach Dave Peterson. Aztec defense was led by Coach John Devore and Coach Bill McLaughlin. The coaches seemed to do a very good job of getting these men together. Although things weren't always easy, the Aztec Varsity football team of 1977-'78 held their heads and their spirit sky high throughout the season.

FIELD TROOPERS

...As computered powered 'droids rumble down the field, a crowd of computerized spectators lead them on with tape recorded cheers. Their new equipment gleaming in the light of a diffused sun gives off a feeling of total domination. It's the beginning of a new season for the Montgomery Aztecs, the year is 2001. As the ball is shot through the air with the ultra-sonic kick-off, the computer operated crowd goes wild. What?? Something is going wrong. The ball-carrier is--he's going the wrong way! The crowd is ecstatic. It looks like an equipment malfunction. The team's technicians jump into action to try and correct the malfunction. The ball carrier is turning. It's too late. The opposition is on him. He makes a break for it--too late. He is desintegrated by their lasers. The technicians consult the master computer (the referee) and find that the 'droids helmet was too tight thus melting his power play unit. The game is... That was just one interpretation of what Aztec football would be like in the future. But it is still too far fetched for today. The 1977-'78 season has been a promising one for the Aztec Junior Varsity Football Team. They started out this action packed season by totally dominating their first three games and leaving their opposition virtually scoreless. Once again, the J.V. team proved themselves worthy of the Aztec name.

J.V. CHEERLEADERS

Last summer, five girls became friends. Their names were Stacey, Roz, Janene, Mylene, and Marisol. They would meet every day in front of the gym and practice something that interested them all. Even though others were going to the beach and having fun, they continued to meet every day and practice. In August, the five girls decided to take a vacation, so they attended a camp at UCLA. It wasn't a very long vacation for Janene; she hurt her leg and had to return home. When they came home they were a lot happier and they were better at what they had been working on (and Janene was recovering). When school started, people began to notice them; they all wore the same exact clothes. The five girls cheered at the J.V. games and also made tags for the J.V. teams. They even displayed their artistic talents by making posters and run throughs for the teams. These girls proved to be one of the most spirited groups on campus. If you haven't guessed by now, these five girls are the J.V. Cheerleaders of 1977-78.

Rosalind Ruiz

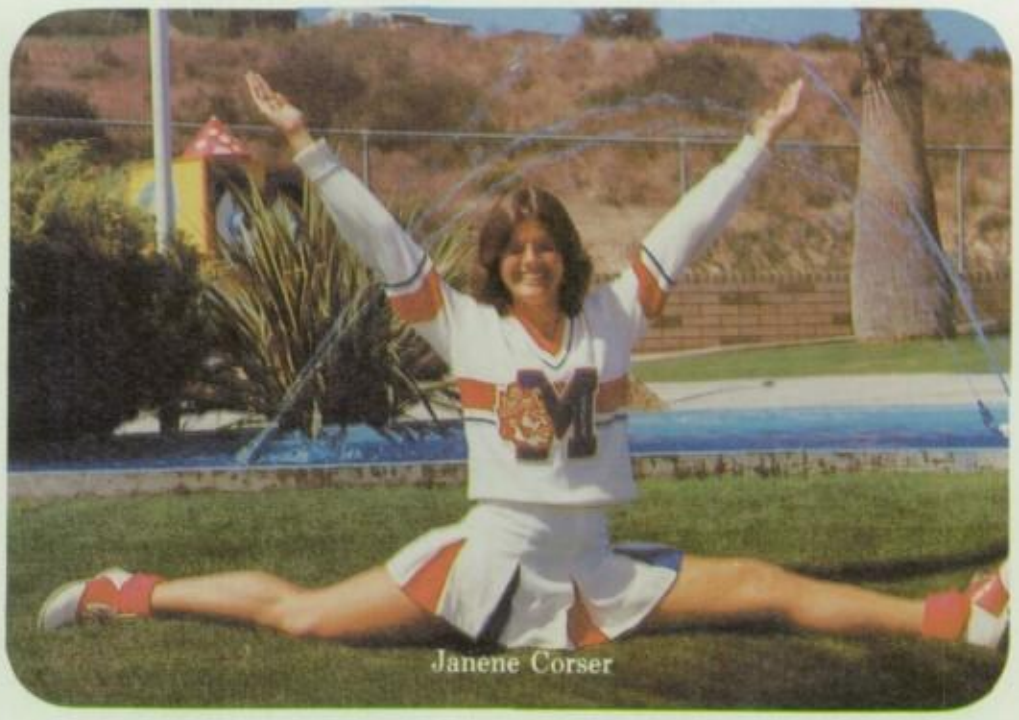
Stacey Fontilea (Captain)



Janene Corser

What do you think cheerleading will be like in the future?

Roz Ruiz: "I think we'll have electric pom pons." She has an idea that the cheerleaders will just stand still in uniforms consisting of flashing colored lights, while large computerized boxes project cheers and chants to excite the audience, and the audience's computers would cheer back.

Janene Corser: "The pom pons will probably be lights." She doesn't think that we'll have human cheerleaders. "They'll be robots."

Stacey Fontilea (Captain): "I think it'll be a lot more creative." She thinks that they might have more enthusiasm and that they'll try out because they want to be cheerleaders, not just to be popular.

Mylene Agustin: "The same as they are now, but more advanced. Because of women's liberation, they'll wear pants instead of skirts." She also hopes that there will be more guys involved in cheerleading (perhaps wearing skirts instead of pants!)

Marisol Rodriguez: "I don't think there will be any big changes besides new cheers and different fashion styles."

The J.V. Cheerleaders' ideas many not be as outlandish as they might seem. With the popularity of computers as it is now, it might be possible that we will have computerized cheerleaders. People in the stands will bring headphones and hook up to the main computer and tune into cries of total annihilation (destruction): CRUSH! KILL! DESTROY! Keep in mind that this is only speculation. Tune in 50 years later to find out . . .

As for now, cheerleading will remain the same—the same way it has for many years. The J.V. Cheerleaders will stirve to motivate the entire student body into cheering until they're blue in the face.

VARSITY AND JUNIOR VARSITY

Montgomery High's girl's Varsity volleyball team is a very young and inexperienced club. Although the team's members are well trained and well seasoned athletes, it would be tough for them to compete against teams with plenty of experience, but the Aztec girls could put up a good fight and make all of us proud of them. Under the supervision of head coach Olivia Pyle, the Varsity team has gained a lot of confidence and the valuable experience that is needed by such a young team. The girls have practiced extremely hard every day after school in hopes of adding to their abilities and to even up the odds against the other teams. The girls have pride, spirit, and determination on their side and they work hard to better their abilities. That's what makes the Montgomery girl's Varsity volleyball team the most determined and inspired bunch of girls on campus. Metro better watch out, because the Mighty Aztecs have the start of a team that they'll have to look out for in the future.

NOW AND THEN . . .

It's the year 2001 and the J.V. volleyball team is ready for the big game. It's no longer played for fun. The game helps to solve the overpopulation problem in the schools. The losing team will get bussed to a school far away. Everybody is tense throughout the game. Even the spectators seem to be tense as they watch the game. This is something to think about with the importance competition has in our society. Now we return to the present. This year's J.V. volleyball team consists of sophomores and juniors. With experience and confidence on their side, the J.V. volleyball team will be a hard team for opponents to overcome. Undefeated so far in pre-season and regular games, Coach Aguilar and his team are looking forward to a winning season.

WET AND WILD ONES

Some people use water to take a bath, some drink it, and others simply waste it, but a group of Montgomery students play water polo in it! The water polo team seems to be dedicated to their cause as they get up to practice in the wee hours of the morning, barely awake as they kick and splash in the water. The team is still young but their experience is growing rapidly. Under the coaching of Rick Powell, the team has strived towards the ultimate goal: victory. Although they haven't come out on top, they continue to hold the pride and determination necessary of an Aztec team.

Tennis is a great way to have fun, but the Girls Tennis team takes it more seriously than just having fun. They want to win and have reached this goal several times. With only three returning players, the team is young but far from unsuccessful. Coach Pat Samples has done a good job of coaching them. Two outstanding players were Connie Lasca, who went to C.I.F. playoffs, and Gina Hester, who went to C.I.F. playoffs and Metro finals. The girls put hard work and determination into this season, but the most important thing is the fact that they all enjoyed playing tennis, and isn't being happy what counts?

They might as well enjoy it now because the good old tennis racket may very well be obsolete by the year 2000. The game of tennis might be nothing more than a T.V. pong game. Instead of meeting on the tennis courts under the sun, the athletes may gather in special air conditioned rooms for their pong matches. Maybe this won't happen, but who knows?

Crosscountry as we know it today is a grueling test of human speed, strength, and endurance. But in the future, crosscountry may change so much that it may not even be recognizable by our standards. All the original ideals and values of the sport may be lost and forgotten in the new technology of the future. For example, in the future, humans might not even run crosscountry. Computer operated 'droids may take the place of their human counterparts. The race may no longer be a test of human stamina, but one of strategy and technique.

The 1977-78 Montgomery Aztec Varsity Crosscountry team had an outstanding season this year, rocketing into and taking third place in the Metro-League finals with a regular season track record of six wins and three losses. Led by John Taylor, Joe and Jeff Penwell, and Roger Hughston, the mighty Aztec crosscountry team unleashed their relentless wrath on the unsuspecting teams of Metro. Members of the crosscountry team worked hard for the position they got, going over the rigorous training and conditioning that crosscountry demands. The work, the training, the determination, the persistence, and the need to be winners are what makes this team the perfect example of ....

20 years into the future: There's a huge crowd of people ready to run a very important race. Why do they run? The first one to the finish line gets the job he is seeking. It's not the easiest way to get a job but it's one of the few ways. Besides, the work-out is great.

1977-'78: Although they didn't have such a critical reason to run, the J.V. crosscountry team had a very good season. These young men believed in themselves and put out an effort to be the best. Coach Challis did a fine job of coaching them and helping them grow into a strong and determined team.

WINTER SPORTS

Beginning the '77-'78 season with a 4-0 record, the Junior Varsity basketball team had what it took to make a great team. Although they didn't have the heighth of a basketball team, the desire to win was there. More importantly was their positive attitude. Not a single player on the team had a bad attitude and that seemed to have kept the team together and going strong. Coach Maio showed these enthusiastic young men how important good sportsmanship is. Although the team was not highly experienced, they made their way through to an outstanding season. They showed their opponents who was number one as they outscored them by wide margins.

Eagerly awaiting the ball.

As we jump way ahead into the future, there is a new scene for basketball. The athletes all await training and practice. There are tall ones and short ones. Short ones, you ask? Yes, there are many short ones trying out, because with the new stretching machine, height is no longer a problem. A few seconds and presto-instant giant!

Next we picture them gliding across the court on computer operated tracks which guide them to their destiny. With this, a mistake is seldom made, thus making the game very unchallenging.

Walking away sadly, I lean on my cane and wonder what happened to the good old days when basketball was an exciting game. The '77-'78 season was a memorable one. Excitement was at it's peak; performance and skill were necessary and the team was ready and willing to give all they had to win. These characteristics made every game worthwhile and made us all proud to be Aztecs.

Softball in the future may be very different from what we are used to here at Montgomery High. The balls they use will have greater speed and control. Instead of regular shoes, the girls might have jet-powered devices in their sneakers that help them to run faster than a speeding bullet. Homing devices in the bats will make it easier to connect with the balls. All the pitcher will have to do is stand on the mound and step on any one of the variety of buttons according to the type of ball she desires to pitch.

As of this year however, the girl's softball team used the traditional bats and balls. Because of the rain and mud, their season proved to be on the discouraging side. Many of the games were postponed because of rain. Otherwise, the girls had a promising year. Coach Challis helped them achieve better skills and gain the confidence necessary to build a good team.

Soccer for the '77-'78 season proved to be outstanding. The Aztecs were number one in the county for two months and are definitely one of the top teams in San Diego. Their hard work and determination led them onto many victories. As of February 2, their record standings were: league — 10-1, overall — 17-2-1, tournament-2nd (runner-up) in the 36 team La Jolla Cup.

This year's top scorers were Miguel Ramos, with 25 goals, Gilbert Sanchez, with 19 goals, and Gabriel Aborqui, with 11 goals.

Jorge Cruz was a strong defensive leader. Gerardo Gamboa and Sergio Rodriguez also played great on defense. The soccer team played fantastic in the '77-'78 season. With Coach DeVore, Coach McLaughlin, and Coach Persona behind them, and with their strong will, the team fought their way to being a top team.

Coaches: Persona, McLaughlin, and DeVore.

Varsity wrestling had a disappointing season this year. They started off with a loss to Mar Vista, followed by an important win to Hilltop. Their confidence went up high, but after a tragic loss to Chula Vista, things began to look a little different. Although the loss to Chula Vista hurt, the Aztec wrestlers managed to stay pretty much on top of their opponents. Although the team as a whole is good, there are certain men that really carry them. These men are the most outstanding Aztec wrestlers: Romeo Cerezo-98 lbs., Virgil Bernal-105 lbs., George Mejia-115 lbs., Ernie Rubio-123 lbs., Marcelo Discartin-130 lbs., Manuel Aldrete-148 lbs., Darnell Bey-194 lbs., Rodney Turney-237 lbs., Norway Del Rosario-157 lbs., and Sal Zuniga-168 lbs.

The Junior Varsity wrestling season was very successful despite the won-loss record. In most matches the team forfeited as many as 30 points due to injuries and illness. They did, however, claim the league championship by the outstanding wrestling of: Hilario Abutin in the 95 lb., Ramon Seva in the 105 lb., Ray Rubio in the 115 lb., and Billy Fischer in the 175 lb. weight classes. Joe Dudas took 2nd place in the 120 lb. weight class and Jose Cruz took 3rd in the 110 lb. weight class. Therefore, Montgomery can be proud of its representation in the league this year.

Experience is one thing that the Varsity girl's basketball team had over the J.V. team. Their experience, along with their team spirit, was enough for victory. Another victory in itself is the fact that the girls were determined enough to make a team out of themselves. It's proud, hard-working girls like these that give a name to girl's sports. In the future, there may be more girl's sports and the number of females on different kinds of teams may be equal or larger than the number of males. This could happen some day if girls are willing to work for it. This year's girls Varsity basketball team consisted of: Cathy Toves, Rowena Musico, Debbie Walker, Lena Walker, Lori Espanol, Martha Huante, Connie Lacsa, Margaret Thornton, and Justine Lewandowski.

Baseball, as with any sport, is highly competitive. The competition is not only physical, there is also mental competition. In order to win a game, team effort is needed. Confidence is another important factor. In their first pre-season game against San Diego High, the Varsity baseball team was confident and won by a score of 13-4. In a tournament game against Helix, the Aztec team was leading in the beginning, but their confidence seemed to lead to over-confidence, which led to their losing by a score of 3-1. With only five returning lettermen: Gil Gonzales, Bruce Tomlinson, Delane Aguilar, Carols Eribez, and Blaine Jasmund; the team was young and inexperienced. Defense seemed to be their strongest area.

Being victorious wasn't such a large task for this team. The team had a strong backbone because most of the men had prior experience in playing baseball. The majority of the players had been on the Luckie Waller All-Star Team before they started playing high school ball. These men promise a good future for baseball next year.

Golf. That's a stupid game: Hit a little ball then chase it just to hit it again. Sounds stupid, sounds easy, but that's not all there is to it. It's not that easy to hit it straight. Ask any Aztec Golf Team member and they'll also tell you what a great feeling of accomplishment and pride you get when you can hit the ball straight and far.

The Aztec Golf Team worked hard to build the skills required to play golf. They also worked hard to build the program, and their work payed off. This year's golf team was the most competitive that Montgomery has ever had, and with eight players returning, next year they will be even better. The program has changed too. This year the team attracted more candidates than in past years. Winning golf will soon become a tradition at Montgomery High.

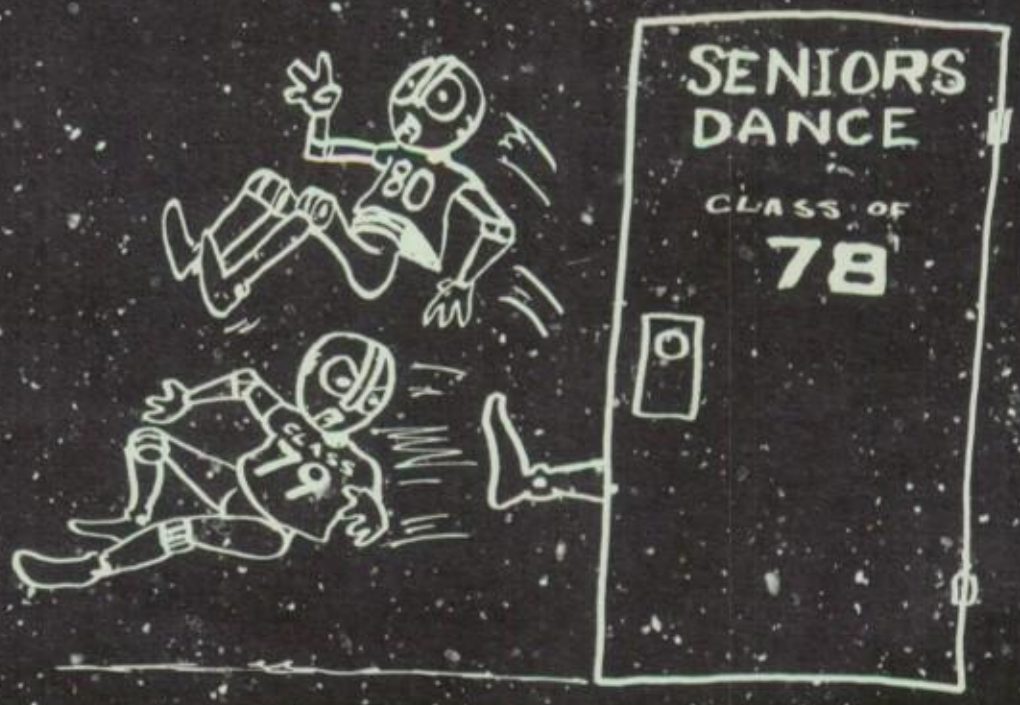
SENIORS



As we reflect on our sophomore & junior years, we found ourselves being pushed around quite a bit. Ahhh ... the joys that lie ahead of us when we would become Seniors — the day when finally we would do the pushing around. That day eventually did come but many of our expected sweet dreams have become shattered. It was a year of confusion, changes & being pushed around once more. Tough competition and hassles for college entrance and adjusting to new changes on campus made this year uneasy for many of us. Pre-registration was a big hassle this year. It was hard to adjust to the new & unusual system. Many new & different time schedules were thrown in our faces. This left us walking around campus in confusion for quite some time. With an expanded enrollment this year, trailers were put right in front of our Senior lawn. The lawn's alienation from the rest of the campus made us forget about its existance. Tighter security was also new during assembly time and many of us were confined in the library or cafeteria. Some of us who will be attending college went through pain, too. There were forms to fill out for financial aid & applications to colleges. A trip to the counselors made our burdens lighter. It seems like there were so many things we had to do to prepare ourselves for the outside world in such little time. With all the hassles throughout the year, it's no wonder we were susceptible to Senioritis. But there's at least one joy we still have now that we've become Seniors & that's when we can say, "It's great to graduate in 1978!"

THE CLASS THAT'S GREAT . . . '78!

A few years from now, many of us will probably be reminiscing about our high school years, particularly our Senior year. As we venture into the future, we should tightly hold on to the memories of this special time in our lives. And so to revive these memories, here are a few highlights of our Senior year.

. . . INTO THE FUTURE

I'm leaving and entering a new dimension,
A world of my own
that someday I may call home.
And to you I leave
all my memories behind,
for out there is a world of many a kind.
You have taught me right,
You have taught me wrong,
Some things I'll remember all my life long.

Finals Week

Disco 10

As we get ready to graduate, many of us have finally begun to value the importance of time. Time didn't mean a thing to us when we were young, but now that we're older, it's become more important because our lives seem to be quickly passing us by. It's also hard to imagine that through the years, we've been in a world where our lives seemed to be laid out for us. Decisions were made for us when we were young & we didn't have any worries in life. But in a short while, each of us will be leaving our present worlds & going our separate ways to find and make worlds of our own. We'll each be exploring, seeking & searching for new places, people, experiences and adventures. We'll work hard to make our dreams become realities. But also keep in mind that our voyage in life won't come easy. It'll be rough at first trying to settle down in the so-called bitter and cold outside world we've heard so much about. It'll seem as if we have to start our lives at the bottom again and struggle to make our lives easier. Undoubtedly there'll be new problems to face, all of which are a part of life. It might be scary to think about that long voyage we'll be taking soon but the fears will subside as we travel forward into time. We're on our own now and though we'll be making our lives what we want them to be, we must make living worthwhile. We should live our lives to the fullest because we won't pass this way again. And so, before the Seniors take their first step into the future, we would like to wish them a big "BON VOYAGE" to their journies in life.

THE 1978 ACADEMIC VARSITY:

All over campus, year in and year out, there are Varsity teams representing our school who are being praised for something. There's football, soccer, basketball, — the list goes on. But there's one group on campus with a low profile that should be commended too — the Academic Varsity, better known as C.S.F. Athletic teams are always in the spotlight, but what credit is given to those who excel academically?

During their entire stay at Montgomery, these people have worked hard to attain high marks and achieve 10 C.S.F. points at the end of each semester. (Three points awarded for an "A" grade, one point for a "B", and zero points for a "C" grade.) Aside from graduating first and in white gowns, this group of Seniors worked towards receiving a special seal on their diploma. The importance of the seal is that colleges quickly accept sealbearers than nonsealbearers.

It might not be necessary, but a college education seems important to these people. And if we are representative of the youth of today, a good academic background could be helpful in the forming of tomorrow's leaders. Indeed this is a special group because not only are they working hard towards achieving a good future for themselves, but for the rest of the world, too.

"Thinking about the good times we've shared together." S, D, G, & E (always reminded by Debbie Walker HA! HA!) premiered in 1975 of our sophomore year starring Stephanie Villegas, Doris Ewing, Grayce Parian, and Eileen (Celini) Pugay. The highlights of that year included jammin' in a blue Astre, sharing moments with special friends, gymnastics in white skin-tight warm ups, and walking to and from school until we became eligible for a driver's license. To our driver's training teacher, Mr. Kellison, we hope you remember those chocolate chip cookies. During our junior year we remember the FAMILY in fondest memories and all the GOOD TIMES we shared with Doris, Shorty, Stephanie, Dominic, Albert, Joe, Jennifer, Andy, Grayce, Wilson, Celini, and Martha. "To bad, how sad, you mad, we're glad." "That's bunk, messed up, mute, bobo, retardation, exclamation, and a ½ cliche, mmm ... Nabootoos-dabootoos-saspoosh." Also gymnastics with our Managers, Zubi (Ho hum) and Brian (Booben, Byron, Sasquash), jammin' during lunch and 6th, the beach and the family Hustle to the Best Disco in Town and remember Pizza Hut - Half-Inch, Pinocchio, Eighteen Holer, Hole Week, No Hair, Vaseline, and Polish Radio. In our Senior year we'll always remember the times we shared togehter, good and bad. Spirit Week with John M., Kevin, Rocky, John Z., and Noel in the 3 Man Relay Race, 1st period gymnastics class with Jack, Kenny, Darrell, Tito, and Ronnie, our little sister Rene - Love and Good Luck to you always wherever you go. We'll always remember your complaints in gymnastics, your food cravings, and your never-ending talking about this, that, and whatever, and Janet V. hang in there! (gymnastics), Coach DeVore, What a coach, what a coach! And Pep Club coming to school before the alarm clock went off to hang up all the locker stuff, the football cake, and the bus ride back after a football game (Remember?) Finally, we'd like to thank Mrs. Pyle for her understanding, guidance, and 3 years-a time we won't forget. Mrs. Thorogood, thanks for all you've done for us. You're a fine person, you give more than you receive. Other poeple we'd like to mention and say good luck to are Mr. Prazak (thanks for all the help, Billy H. stay out of trouble OK?, J.D. Fine, Buff, Da-who, Delane A. hope all things go your way, with much appreciation, we'd like to thank Lisa R. Ray, Memories are forever; Zubi, We won't forget Sweethearts; Brian, I won't forget the times we've had. Wilson, Caring is a part of sharing, Andy, M & M, Uvoly. Special thanks to our parents with much love and gratitude. Farewell, Montgomery, and good luck!

MESSAGES FROM BEYOND

I can remember walking onto this campus for the first time ... gosh it was big. I will also remember leaving it for the last time. Within these walls are times which I will long remember. Some good and some bad. All of these thoughts played an important role in shaping me and my future. The corridors echo with the laughter which we all shared. The joys, tears, and memories will linger on. Years from now we will try to relive these memories, but never again will they be so meaningful. It's like you want to cradle them in your arms and never let them go. But time has a way of slipping through your fingers and we must push on. So here's to you Montgomery High ... thank you for three wonderful years. Ray, Betsy, Greg, & Lori ... you four have touched my life greatly and I thank you for doing so. Take care, everyone. Keep in touch.

MICH, Well, kid, I hope the path in which you have chosen to take will show you eternal happiness. You know, I'm really gonna miss ya next year. It won't be the same working on the annual without my co-editor. I couldn't have asked for a better partner on the staff. I'll always remember those endless deadlines: losing sleep the nite before, missing every class of the day, starving during lunch, and typing copy one letter at a time cuz no one else would do it. Everybody on edge & at least one person crying. No pics ever developed, and all those layouts having to be re-done. All this just for ONE deadline and just think of those we went thru. I guess the two of us really drove the rest of 'em crazy. Fiends — that's what Rex called us. Poor Mr. Parr must have ulcers. We've had six great years together and those memories of fun and laughter we shared will forever shine in my mind. Love ya, Ky.

Hi people:

Thanks for making my two years here at Montgomery so crazy ... To Randy, Armida, and Dorian - Remember our games? To Paca - Well, looks like I made it. Don't let 'them' get to you and you'll find your way. To Lil - I will look you up in the Yellow Pages. To Emmo - Well, what can I say? I can fold my clothes and you get A's pretty good!!! (I will try to be Pres — is Supreme Court Judge OK???) To Mrs. Mason - I guess a lot of things aren't 'the pitts.' Thanks for everything. To John - It's been a long time. Shake 'em up at MIT. To Ralph - We've had some good times. Good Luck. To Teresa - Believe me, I will never change, so take me for what I am. To Doc - I think I'll find myself. To Row - I thought I was alone. Thanks for telling me in time. To Maria 'Lisa' Rex - "Hey!! Who do you think you are?!" You're welcome on Cloud 22 anytime. To the rest of you - That's the breaks (I ran out of room). I will tell you in person. Good Luck to all of you graduating in '78. A very special 'Good Luck' to my special people in '79.

With Love Always,
Martha Huante

Good luck always and forever!

Me

(P.S. A thousand good nights!)

To Uncle Tony: Don't forget the late great days of the old "big head." To the best couple next to me and Bernard, Wendy & Joe: Keep up the "quickies." It's the only way you'll find time. To Margie: I wish you and Larry all the luck a new couple (married) should have. To Yvonne: Don't forget me! Good luck. To Mom and Dad: Thanks for trying to understand (Band). To the love of my life, Bernard: You are still mine, my one, my only. I wish you ALL the love and luck.

Karie

To some very special people at Montgomery. Jewel - I'll always remember you when you're an F.O.B. (In a special way we'll be close). Jackie - I always had fun being with you and Jewel. Ann - Where's your Wicky-Wicky? (Ah-ha!) Monica - Thanks for everything. Lolita - Let's go to the store! Naida - Thanks for the good talks. Both Virgils - Thanks for making me smile. Sandra - Good luck, sis. Karen - To my other half, where I go, you go. It looks just like him. Mike - Be a good forest ranger and take care. Eleanor
P.S. Thanks to all my tenth grade friends, Jewel, Jackie, Alex, Grace, and Susie.

I want to wish all the luck in the world to my friends. To some special people: Ann - Thanx for bringing happiness wherever you were, you're LOONEY! Jewel & Jackie - We've had a lot of good times together. I'm gonna miss ya. Alex - You'll always be my "SWEETHEART", keep-n-touch. Bryan - you were always there when I needed you most — when I performed, show those dimples!! To my little brother, John - Good luck in all your sports and don't let anything or anybody discourage you. Ray - I'm gonna miss your sunshine smile (maybe you'll grow some in the near future). Last but not least, to the best friend a person can have, EL-Got a hot date tonight? I see a ship ... could it be the one with orange interior. 'I'm tired of eating tostados all the time, buy some different food!" Prazak - I love you. Take care. Love Karen
P.S. Ric - Thanx for the banana splits. Keep-n-touch, Epstein & Groucho.

My friends, we are departing, following our own ball of string wondering what the future will bring. You'll go your way and I'll go mine — searching for the happiness that I hope you'll find. Regina (Ruby) Salvacion, you've shown me how to have fun & gave me the courage to walk when I wanted to run. (Long Beach '77-'78 & football games and Homecoming). Idelfha Bay Loyola, what can I say? You've helped me spiritually and supported me in every possible way (Newspaper '74-'75 & '77-'78). Midolie (Mickey) Loyola, you trip me out. You're a good friend — I have no doubt. You cheer me up when I'm down and make me laugh when I frown. (French). This is only part of what I wanted to say. But I've never been good at telling what I feel, anyway. In the future when you read this again, remember that I'll still be your friend.

Love & Friends Always,
Nerisa

Though I have left Monty High, there are still special people who were there at the right times. Since they, too, will be leaving, I would like to let them know how special they were. Bill, at times of trouble and desperation, you were there. Efren, my heart would be a jigsaw puzzle without you. Joe, much love and friendship was shared between you & I. Vince, I know that you will always be my friend. Rossie, I could have never made it without you. Randy, your happiness has kept me happy. Wendy, our friendship will always be treasured. To Jerry, I will forever remember those 8 months of love and devotion that we shared. These special seniors I give much love and happiness in the future.

Marci

YEAR, BUT KAREN!

A sincere thanks to all those students with whom I've had the opportunity to share this past year. SENIORS → Good luck to you, remember → BELIEVE in yourself, the world is now open to you - ENJOY!
♡A special loving thought goes to those young ladies of the LAS AZTECAS who have made this year rewarding and filled with experiences I'll always treasure. I'm proud to have had an opportunity to be a part of Montgomery. I'm especially proud to be an AZTEC!!
All my love & thanks,
Eileen Mennis

Hey you Seniors!

This is really hard to write. Trying to sum up all the memories that seemed to just happen too fast, and then when realized, they become just that, MEMORIES, like them "FUNKY-GET-DOWNS" during the "KICK-BACK SUMMER OF 77" or how 'bout them "PARTIES IN SIDRO" blastin' "YOU OUGHT TO BE HAVIN' FUN" I mean "TOTALLY" right Flips? I'll never forget "POPCORN w/ROCKY" will you "P.D.?" (See I told you I'd mention you!) You shine on now Mamalyn.

It seems like yesterday that everything began but in reality, tomorrow it will be ending. So much ... Too much ... Like the time the "CORONADO BRIDGE" was shot down by the "SOLAR SYSTEM" during the summer practices in the Sophomore year of this fine "CLASS of '78." Hey "SPUD-SY" slow down ... constantly swooping is hazardous to your health. Just reach out, it's there!

On and on, the memories just come in, but I've got to stop. The thoughts are where they belong, behind us so we can move on to different things. Memories are borrowed time from the past to ease the awakening reality of tomorrow. Precious as it may have been, they are gone. One thing though that will never be gone is the magic of friendship, togetherness, and uniqueness this special one and only "CLASS of 78" shared and projected. Yes, this class was, is and shall never fail to prove that we are and always will be "THE BEST" in everything!

This "CLASS of '78" showed a touch of magic, a touch of uniqueness, and a "TOUCH OF CLASS!"

And so finally, to my friends, I want to wish you love, luck, and forever happiness. For my special sisters, you know the closeness we shared shall never be forgot! Let the memory of our years together keep us tight forever! And hey "A B C D & E" we were bad! Love to you all.

Remember to always keep in mind that your rainbow, your happiness is out there. Strive to reach it and smile to keep it. The "Class of '78" is and will always be "UNIQUE."

Good luck and much love.

Always,
Cel

To my better half, keep on smilin', you are a truly beautiful person.

I would like to thank the special people in my life that gave me love and laughter. First are my parents who I love very much. I will always cherish in my heart the times we shared in good or bad. To let them know I am I & they are they, my life will be devoted to them & me. To my brothers & sisters that I've met along my road (I won't mention any names cuz you know who you are) remember, "It is our friendship that still goes on & on, and will never die. And yes, we must ever be friends & of all who offer you friendship let me ever be the first to trust the nearest, the dearest." Good luck, Seniors. To our little gang since Jr. High, there are a lot of unforgotten memories. Remember ... "Life has to start with love, end with love, or there is no meaning to it."
Love, Alma D.J.
P.S. All my love to BCDE.

To the special people in my life who've always made me happy —
Miriam (CSF sister): "That's the breaks."

Always your daughter, Gina Hester

Rocky & Denise, maybe your relationship will be as good as ours. Hey Denise, my guppies must weigh 10 lbs. each now! Do you still go to Rocky's house to "get a drink?"

To the 2nd best couple-Karie & Bernard-"keep up the quickies!" Karie, got a pen to "connect your spots?" Ever seen a 10 lb. guppy?

Pat B., remember the good times. Good luck with Z.

Samelia, maybe someday you'll find your true love, but you've got to kiss a lot of frogs before you find your hansome prince. Come & see me when I'm "Mrs. M."

Marci, your friendship means so much.

To the best Mom & Dad in the world, thanks for all the love & support.

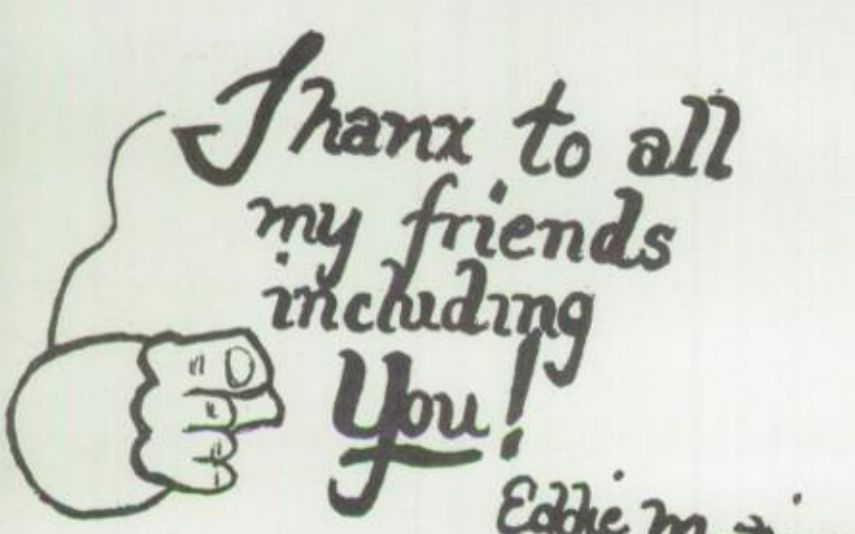
Joe, you're the whole world & more to me. Never doubt that I love you more than anything.

Love, Wendy

P.S. Joe, "let's go feed my fish!"

I would like to take the time to thank Catalina who has been a true friend! And also to point out that she is a wonderful person who should have yelled more at her photographers (who just procrastinated and made a nervous wreck of her life). Remember that terrific "function" and "Elevate me, my dear!" I love you Omar, Mike L., and Mr. Courchaine. Mr. Courchaine, I know you eavesdropped on our little family life "discussions" during lunch! Cat, you'll always be the T.C. in my book! Andy (GLO), B.C., & Close Encounters of the 25th kind! — I may be crazy, but I'm proud of it! —

FRIENDSHIP is having someone to talk to about your problems.
FRIENDSHIP is having someone care about you.
FRIENDSHIP is knowing that your friend will help you no matter what your problem is.
FRIENDSHIP is trusting one another.
FRIENDSHIP is a special kind of LOVE.
So Cathy, thanks for being my FRIEND.
To my sister, Janie, the best of luck next yr.
TO ALL MY FRIENDS:
THANKS for the memories, CRYSTAL.



To: Joy, Lenny, Nerisa, Regina, and Vinnie,
May GOD hold your future in the palm of his hand
May he bring you more than what you plan
So take care and keep in Touch
Because our friendship means so much

What can I say that hasn't already been said? Except that you're my kind of people. Crys and Glo, thank you. Woody, remember the times I had so many problems and so did you and yet you took the time out to listen to me? Andy, you're someone I can never forget or will ever want to forget. We're crazy, we're unique and we're HAPPY. G.A.S. — you'll find that special someone. Shane, take good care of Anna. We'll always be B.C. Mrs. Henderson, I appreciate every one of those little favors you did for me. A.S.P. — There were times when I actually wanted to kill all of you. Grad Nite '77 — playing "footsies" and talking, laughing and understanding with the only other "R. & C." Mom and Dad, I'm trying my best to be good. I LOVE you both. ME — Take care. I'll always be here whenever you need me. I do care. Lis — You're different and I appreciate it. Midolie — Don't worry, you'll survive. Lil — You're really crazy, but I like you. Idelfha — Thanks for caring.

. . . And to my F.H.B.B., I take great pride in saying that we LOVE each other. Je t'aime.

LOVE is . . . YOU 'n ME

As always,

CATHY

The answer is a definite yes, yes, "YES."
I can now say that I tolerate Jay & Angela.
How about YOU????
22, 23, 17, 15, 12 . . .
"F & N" — REMEMBER?
YOU'RE SPECIAL — YOU'RE "YOU"

Hey, Annual Staff! Thanks for making 1978 a great year! You made my senior year the best ever! I salute the entire staff, Lisa Rex (our fearless editor), Wendy, Javier and Midolie (Thanks for all the thanks), Kyle and Michele (two wild and crazy girls), Armida and Mitch (you two worked together like brother and sister, Heh! Heh! Heh!), Cat (how can anyone be so smart?), Regina, Vince, Betty, Lillian, Lisa Lad (wherever you are), Mr. Parr (and his Mean Pills), and Tom Lynn (great drawings Tom!). To the Chess Club, we know we're No. 1! To all the computer fanatics, Sam, Lord James, etc. remember it's my turn next Thursday! Also, I bid a fond farewell to the teachers that make Montgomery great, Mr. Griffith, Mrs. Whitacre, Ms. Johnston, Mr. Parr, Mr. Meagher, Doc Elliott, Mrs. Tempchin, and Mr. Mousseau and his chocolate chip cookies. I salute you all with a Bronx cheer and my best of wishes! To anyone who dislikes this ad — may Darth Vader give your brother a vasectomy with his light sabre! HURRAY for CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND and STAR WARS! Now, I leave you with this final tidbit of wisdom passed on to me by the great Maha Salami Bologna Liverwurst and Cheese Yogi. He said something I'll never forget, it was "Never . . .", no, it was "Always remember . . ." Oh, forget it! I can't remember what it was; it wasn't important anyway.

THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES, DAVID WOHL

What is a Junior?

What is a Junior? Who? What? Is it a disease? Perhaps it is. You're no longer a dumb, lost sophomore, expected to know nothing. You've been here a year. Where??? At Montgomery High School, San Diego, California. You're not yet a Senior—respected, admired and the headliners of the school Yep, we're the knot in the rope in a game of tug-of-war; we're the "I" in PIT; we're the hamspread in the middle of a sandwich. However, it may be we're the "YUMMY CREAM FILLED CENTER" of the Montgomery High School "DING DONG." Our position of honor and responsibility is to hold M.H.S. together, with the incoming "KNOW-NOTHING SOPHIES" at the bottom and the outgoing "KNOW-IT-ALL SENIORS" at the top. It's great, super great, to be a Junior, the Class of 1979!

JUNIOR CHEER

If all you Juniors are big and bad,
Then show your spirit by clapping your hands.
Now that you all have got that beat,
Let's do it again, but with our feet.
So if you Juniors got all that pride,
Let's hear that pride you got inside!

DESTINATION 1999

A few juniors were asked to comment on these questions: (1) Where will you be in 1999? (2) What do you think of the Junior Class? (3) What do you think future Junior Classes will be like? and (4) What do you think the future holds for MHS?

I am going to be happily married with two children, and a computer analyst in the largest corporation. MHS will not have the same unity as in our year, 1979. More organization and participation is needed in this year's Junior Class, but no other Junior Class will ever be quite like us. We are unique.

Mylene Agustin

I would like to be the owner of a restaurant called the "Salad Bowl" and married to a rich husband with four kids. I feel MHS will be the same but with different people. I feel that this year's Junior Class has no spirit. I would like to see more school participation in future Junior Classes.

Janie Torres

I will be living in either N.Y. or Mass. playing music. Upcoming classes will have more spirit. Soph. traditions should be started. This year's class is the same as last year's—pretty rotten. Future Junior Classes will remain hostile since they are caught between fame-seeking soph. and the established Seniors.

"Wake me up when the bell rings."

This year's junior class has worked very hard, accomplishing many things. The class sponsored a Disneyland trip, held a Back-to-School Benefit, sold class folders, and later in the year, scheduled a trip to Magic Mountain. Writing their own response to the question "What is a junior?" and having their own class cheer shows that the junior class has certainly overcome the sophomore hardships and will be contributing much more when they finally become seniors.

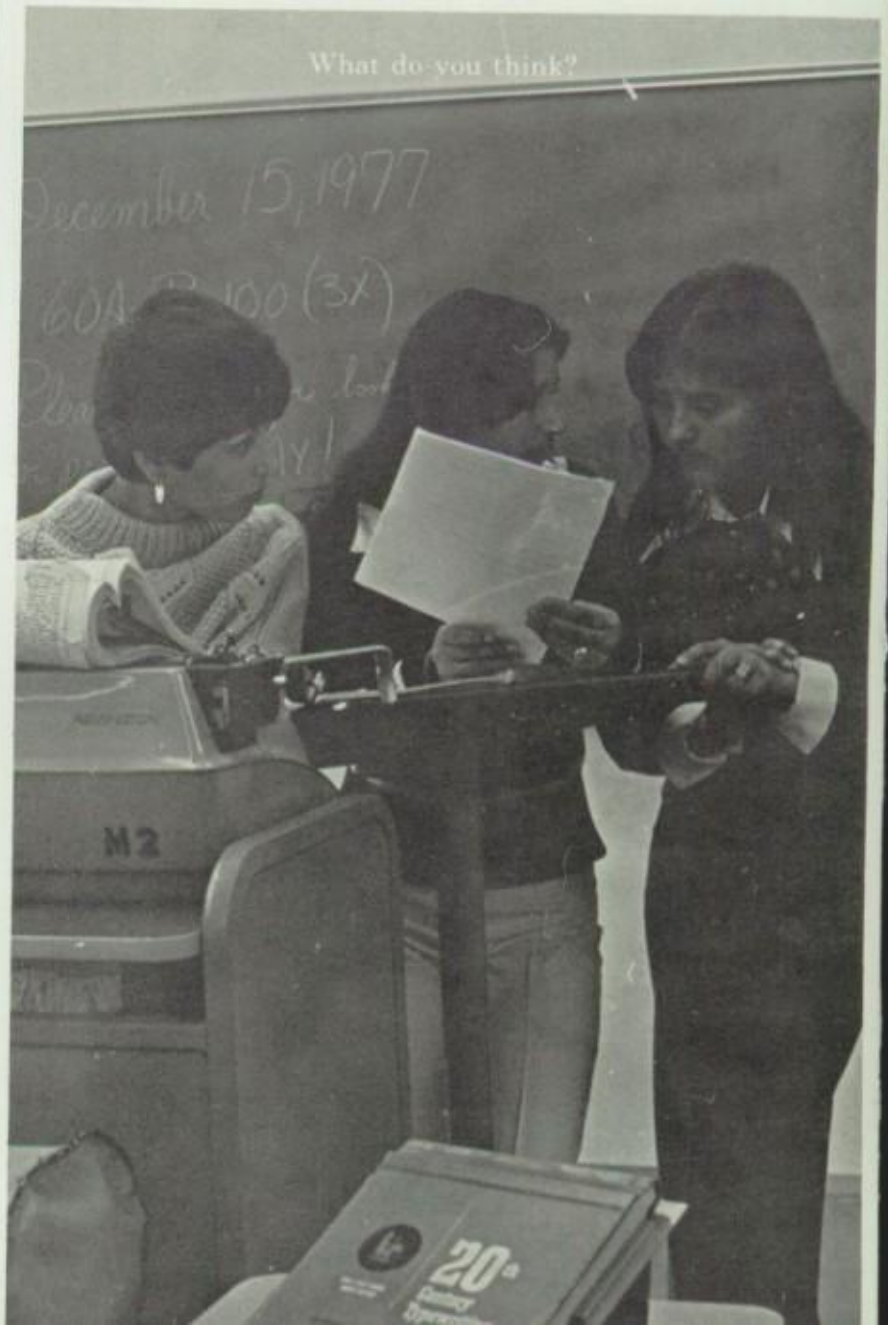
Why do students have the ideal picture of a sophomore in the year 2000 to be an android? Instead of thinking about mechanical people, why can't we picture the student turning back in time? When we speak of turning back in time we mean turning into apes with less intelligence. What do you think a sophomore would be in the year 2000? According to most students on campus, sophomores in the year 2000 would be short with much more intelligence. We classify or picture in our minds sophomores running and rushing around campus to get to their classes. In our minds we look ahead and picture the future sophomore talking, not our kind of slang but "bleep-bleep" slang. As we look further into the future in the year 2065 we picture in our minds a sophomore to no longer have to step out of his front door. They will soon have televised teaching aids that will help teach us the education we need to know. Just think, we might even have teachers on our television trying to crack a real joke. But instead of the jokes of today you'll be hearing the future "bleep-bleep" jokes. Now that we know what the future has in mind for us, do we feel we want to be there to experiment the thrills or do we want to go on living the way we are now? That is the question, but what is your answer?



Although adults feel that the younger generation live in a world of fantasy in which life is but a mere carnival of fun, there is, in reality, a good foundation of ambition and responsibility which in the future will prove to be fruitful.

ACADEMICS

Bill Scarborough, Principal of Palomar High School says, "My friendship with Mr. Torres goes back 38 years, to the days before World War II, at San Diego State College. He was a catcher on a very fine baseball team. Then after the war, we both returned to college and finished our work. We both received our teaching credentials and started working in the Sweetwater District, he at Southwest Junior High and I at National City Junior High. We finally got together when we were both assigned to Southwest Junior High as administrators. In all my dealings with Mr. Torres, I have found him to be a hard-working person, and a fine gentleman.

The students at Montgomery High will lose a good principal and a good friend when he retires. I wish him a happy retirement and a long life. Now he will have time to devote to his family, play golf, or go wherever his feet take him.

Buena suerte, 'Sef.'"

Principal
Mr. Joseph Torres

Ralph A. Skiles, Assistant Superintendent of the District says, "Mr. Torres entered San Diego State University from Riverside Junior College in September, 1941. Although he worked many hours each week to support himself, he was able to maintain an excellent scholastic record and participate in a variety of school activities. He was particularly outstanding in athletics. He was a guard on the San Diego State University basketball team that won a conference championship and a national tournament in Kansas City, and a catcher on the baseball team.

In September, 1941, when World War II appeared to be inevitable, Mr. Torres joined the U.S. Army. He was sent to the Pacific Theatre of Operations shortly after the United States was drawn into the war on December 7, 1941, and served in the Pacific area most of the time until his discharge from the Army in 1945. Following his military duty he returned to San Diego State University and completed a degree and a teaching credential in 1948. His first teaching position was at Southwest Junior High School, and fortunately he chose to remain in the Sweetwater District throughout his entire career.

It is my good fortune to have been a very close friend of Mr. Torres for many years. He is one of the finest gentlemen I have ever met, and he is sincerely respected, admired, and loved by all who know him."

Marion Davis, secretary of Mr. Torres says, "I have worked for Mr. Torres for the past seven years, two years as his Secretary, and five years as Attendance Secretary. I have enjoyed working for Mr. Torres and have found him to be a considerate and fair person. With his busy schedule, he has always made time to get to know the students and listen to their problems whenever they need his guidance. Mr. Torres has great pride in Montgomery High School and the Aztec Spirit. He is very proud of all the staff and students who represent Montgomery High. I know that when he retires he will be missed by many. I know it will take an extraordinary person to continue his leadership."

Mrs. Brenda Balthazar, Mrs. Avery Smith, Mrs. S[illegible]ell

Through the years, man has become more and more dependent upon the computer. The purpose being to make life a little less complicated. In this search for uncluttering his life by such contraptions, man has also lost one thing of great importance, the human touch.

Take the counselors for example. If they were ever to be completely replaced by programmed machines, we would be at a great loss. Even though we would have efficiency, we would lose that one-to-one correspondence with one who understands and listens. Would it be worth such a risk?

Will computers overcome the nurse at our school? It's highly unlikely. Computers have been known to help man solve problems, but none to date have been made to relieve his pain. Sure there are medications that will help cure man of his illnesses, but who will be there to administer them? There is no way that machines can replace the value and warmth of the human touch. The nurse by far is a more valuable asset than a machine.

COMPUTERIZED APPLICATIONS

The 21st century ....

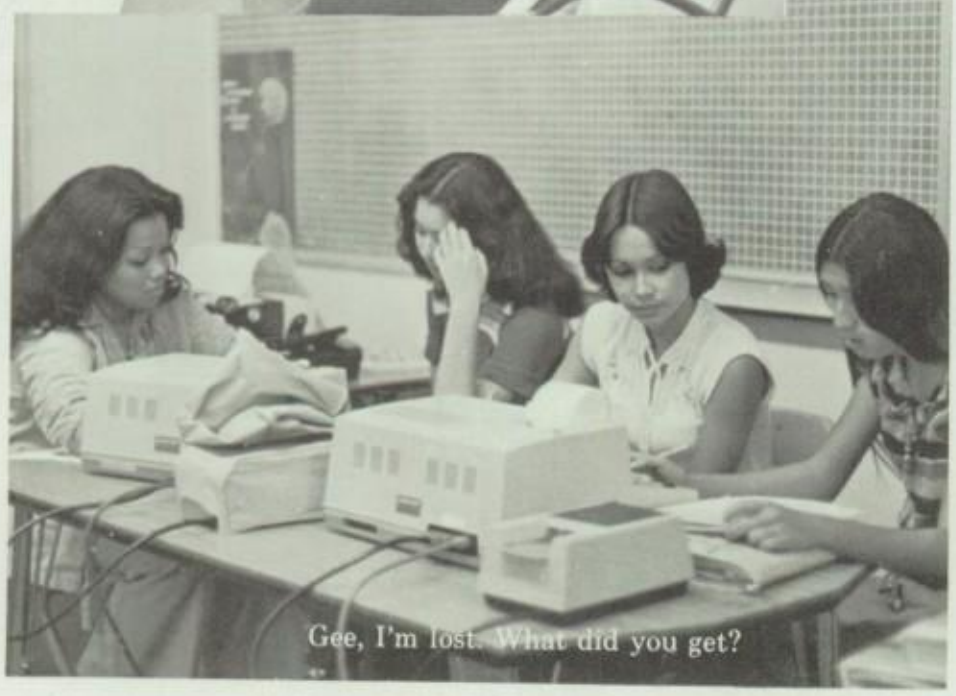
It is an age of mechanics, electronics, statistics, computers. Calculators are elementary, everyday tools. Computers are far more complex but common in usage. Astronomy has finally resumed its importance. The science of math has filtered into and been absorbed by every practical and fine art.

Mathematics with application to art, music, astronomy, health, biological and environmental research, engineering, architecture, genetics, and who knows what else! Math has become a fundamental part of life: Music has become computerized, art is required to be mathematically balanced, all architecture is designed in accordance with mathematical computations, data shows the rising degree of pollution every micro-second, math in application to time, space, and stellar ships. What more can one say?

I know my eyes deceive me sometimes, but this is ridiculous!

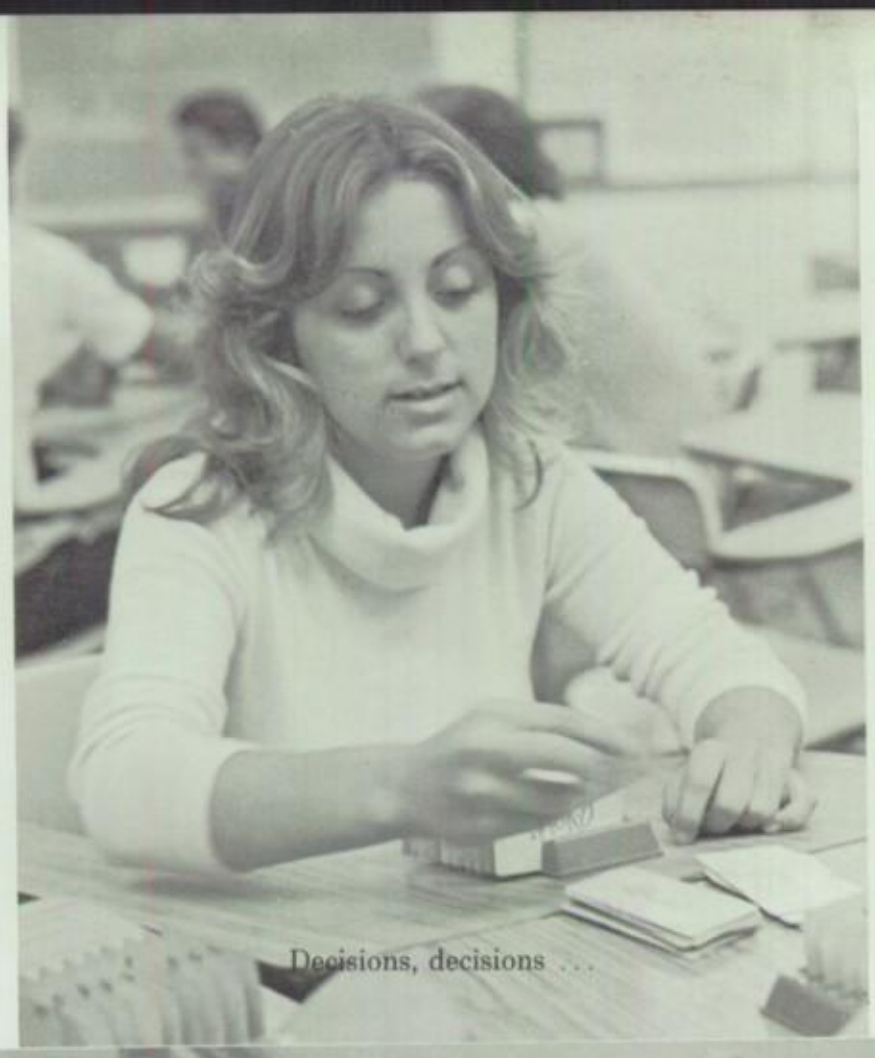
I did [illegible] there was such a numbe

What a collection!



Gee, I'm lost. What did you get?

You see, I told you this was a 70 degree angle!



Decisions, decisions . . .

Throughout the next forty years, our mathematical horizons will expand with amazing speed. We will have a greater need for math and, therefore, be more aware of math and its applications in most fields of study. On all levels, math will become more practical and, at the same time, more specialized. Through its applications, we will have the ability to construct tools for mankind's use, such as the computerized robot. Nevertheless, Mrs. Whitacre, the head of Montgomery's math/science department warns, "Keep the computer as the tool of man, rather than its master. There is danger in too much computer control and too much cataloging of information. The computer and the robot must remain as man's tools if we intend to preserve the dignity of man."

AGE OF TECHNOLOGY

Are these scenes from a science fiction flic? Possibly, but they are also very real. Remember back in the beginning of the 60's when sending manned satellites to the moon was "outlandish"? Today, we've sent satellites to Mars and Venus with the help of science.

Not only does science deal with space, it deals with practically every aspect of life on Earth. It takes science to help with medical experiments on the human body. Scientific technology is needed to work the tiny complex digital watch as well as The Big Ben in London.

In what ways will we be affected by science in the year 2080? There's always the possibility of no schools. We might have recordings played to our subconscious levels dealing with mathematics or English, later to surface when needed. Total elimination of cancer, viruses, and diseases with the help of science is very probable. No need for doctors in such fields.

Are these speculations too abstract? By no means. For right at this very moment there are signs that these might very well become a reality ....

The twelfth graders are terrific; the eleventh graders are a little less terrific; the tenth graders are not terrific. On the whole, however, students are improving scholastically," according to Mr. Jerry Griffith, "despite the great emphasis on jockism. The kids ought to be going to the library rather than to the football field."

Mr. Griffith, one of our U.S. Government teachers, is an individual who enjoys making profound statements as well as stimulating jokes: "Government is ubiquitous. You can't escape it. In fact, the parents ought to be made to take it with the students." When asked what the future holds for the U.S., he added, "The future will bring more inflation, unemployment, higher taxes, and a lower standard of living for most Americans. On the brighter side, a lower crime rate and a better chance for world peace."

"The future is now . . . We live in the past, present, and future simultaneously, and we're always in the right place at the right time to learn what we need to know.

"Whatever the future, it will be the sum total of all the choices we have made and will continue to make.

Psychology (sī kal′ ejē) noun from psych + logia . The study of the psyche or the soul. Future—two possible directions: (1) Positive. If we take the wiser course, we will teach psychology from grade school through college and we, as a whole, will begin to know ourselves, what we are, and who we are. We will have the ability to improve everything because we need no longer strive to know our inner selves or question our purpose in life. As we progress we will become more individualized, yet more involved. Everyone will have the freedom to make his own decisions. "You have to trust people to do what they want to do." (2) Negative. If the study of psychology does not become more widespread and people do not achieve self-knowledge, our society will suffer; it will become more mechanized and dictatorial. As time goes on, instead of having schools every two miles, we will construct mental hospitals to accommodate all of the individuals who have driven themselves insane. Our society will have gone "mad."

Eggbert and Eggwina

As a new project this past year, Mr. Mack, an Aztec family life teacher, handed out eggs to his students and instructed them to treat these eggs as they would their own children. Every student who "gave birth" to an egg, obtained a "Hatch Certificate", named his egg, e.g. Eggbert, Eggwina, and proceeded to treat it with tender loving care. Miriam Hayward, one of Mr. Mack's students, proved to be an excellent example of a responsible parent:

Diary "The egg and I"

Friday, Oct. 14th: Well, I'm happy to announce my little egg is a boy! I decided to name him Lawerence, (I like the name) I left him with my mom, the eggsitter, because I went to the game. I didn't bring him, it was too cold.

Saturday, Oct. 15th: Today, I took my little Lawerence to the Band Pageant. You know, the place where all the bands get together and perform. I think he enjoyed it because he couldn't sit still, especially when we (the drill team) performed. He sat on the benches with Ms. Mennis, our advisor.

Sunday, Oct. 16th: Boy, Lawerence sure was tired from yesterday, because he slept til noon! When he got up I took him outside for awhile to roll around a bit. He watched television awhile too! I think he enjoys it, but I'm sure he doesn't know what the hecks going on!

Monday, Oct. 17th: Well, today he got up too early and I got up to see what was wrong after that I couldn't go back to sleep. So I got ready for school. I got him ready also. The day went pretty slow. He almost hurt himself playing on the tables at school, but I caught him in time. (Thank God!) I think it shook him up a bit, because he didn't play on them anymore.

Tuesday, Oct. 18th: Today he did the same thing again. He woke me up this time at 2:00! He just can't seem to go to sleep anymore I don't know what's wrong I'm still trying to find out. Maybe it's his room?! But how can it be it looks so nice and cozy. Well, I'll try to find out.

Wednesday, Oct. 19th: Well today I found out what was wrong with him. He hasn't been eating right! Wouldn't you know it! Today went pretty smooth, except for drill team practice that's because I left him in the locker! Pretty dumb, I know! That was the only place I could think of at the time?!

Thursday, Oct. 20th: Today was a little like all the rest of the other days, I mean nothing you could call "SPECIAL." Well, at least I can't! Today I was just so busy trying to catch up on my home work that little Lawerence slept most of the time. (I guess he was bored.) After I did finish, I had night practice at the school but Lawerence stayed home.

Friday, Oct. 21st: The last day with Lawerence :sob!: This was a good way to test my way of handling responsibility. I think I can handle it most of the time.

BEYOND THE LIMITS

As we progress, the way we do things becomes more sophisticated. Take transportation, for instance. Years ago, the automobile could only go a maximum of 30 miles per hour. Today, it goes four times that! And what of the future? How fast will this four-wheeled contraption be able to go? Or will it become a thing of the past? As it is, there is an energy shortage. There might not be any fuel to power it.

In the future we may not even need the automobile. Science may discover a quicker and cheaper way to travel. Soon we might be able to go from place to place by the movement of our atoms, or maybe all that we want will be brought to us; thus, no need to go anywhere . . .

FUTURE OLYMPIADS

The year 2121:

Contact sports have become excessively violent, so violent, in fact, that the human body cannot tolerate the resulting physical damage. Thus, we have employed other alternatives. We now use androids and robots to replace man in such sports while man, himself, sits back, observing and controlling the game. He challenges himself mentally, rather than physically, by putting all of his mental abilities into practice: his logic, strategy, and his ability to adapt to new situations.

Nevertheless, man has still retained a number of old, old sports. Some, such as golf and tennis, remain non-violent and provide him with personal challenges. On the other hand, some of the other so-called sports provide him with physical challenges which continue to be suicidal. These sports, such as ski-jumping and stunt-driving, are for the individuals bent on committing suicide. They are for the people who enjoy taking risks and knowing the thrill of danger.

Parenting and Child Development are vocational training courses that help students realize what is actually involved in being a parent and raising a child. Becoming a parent is easy for most people. What's difficult about it is being a good one. Some students and children can learn from each other as well as with each other. The parenting and child development classes cover a number of topics concerning the physical, social, mental, and emotional development of children. Students explore the alternative of having children or not having them. Points are brought out on the problems and responsibilities concerning parenthood. After taking into consideration the care, expense, and responsibilities of raising a child, students become more informed about parenting and child development, thus making the youth of today the "ideal" parents of the future.

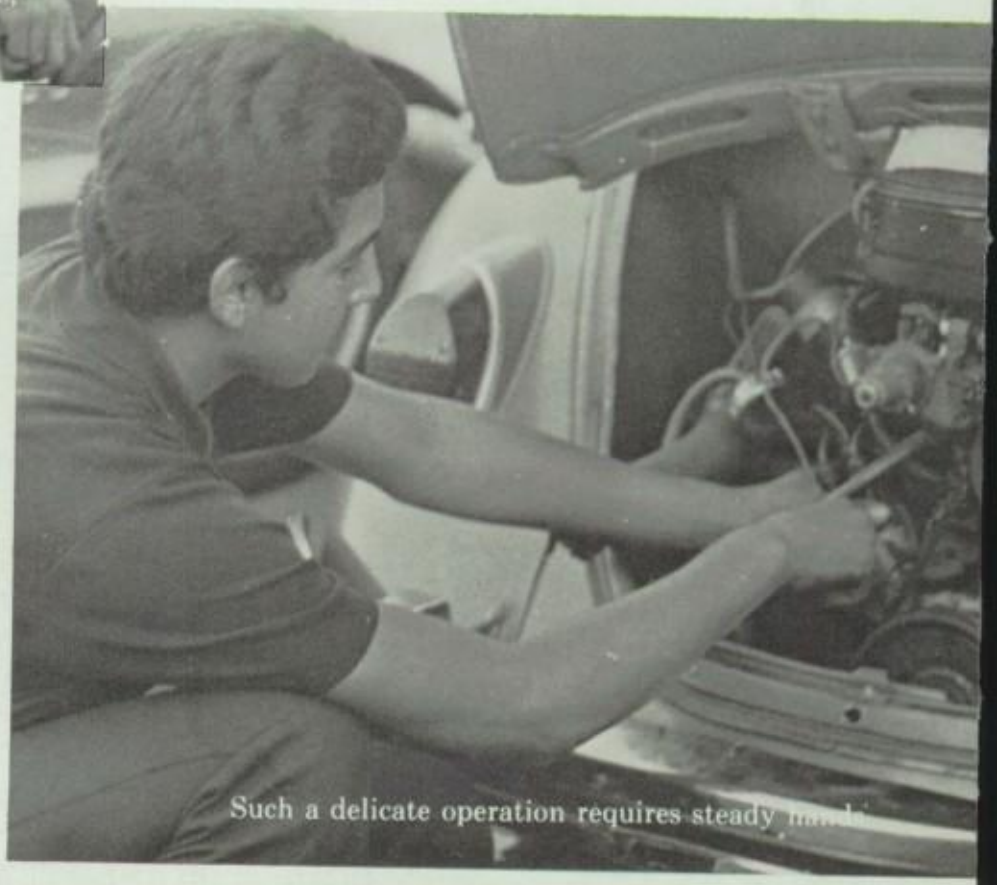
The year 2065 . . .

We're at a point in time where speed is all-important. Rapid transportation is a necessity; everything must move at an increased pace. For this reason, man has fabricated a number of revolutionary vehicles. With his everlasting ingenuity, he has constructed the computerized vehicle, powered by electricity, and capable of maintaining an average speed of 200 m.p.h. It is relatively inexpensive although complex in design. Secondly, he is in the process of constructing an air vehicle, powered by hydroelectricity. Aeronautical engineers are fervently working on it and it is predicted that such a vehicle, when completed, will outrun every form of transportation known today. What more can one ask for?



Such a delicate operation requires steady hands.

Man has always had the need to express himself creatively. For thousands of years, he has expressed himself through music, as well as through art, and, in doing so, he has been able to communicate his experiences in a very unique and memorable way. Through the years, however, his music has become more and more sophisticated, more planned and arranged, but most importantly, more meaningful. Today, there is music for almost every aesthetic palate imaginable, for every age group. Everyone can enjoy listening to sounds that he can identify with. Nevertheless, how will these same people and other upcoming generations express themselves in 30 years? What changes will they have made in music? Computerized sounds have already become a reality, and with great success, and there is presently a surge towards complicated instruments and sounds. Obviously, changes are already in progress, but how radical will these changes become?

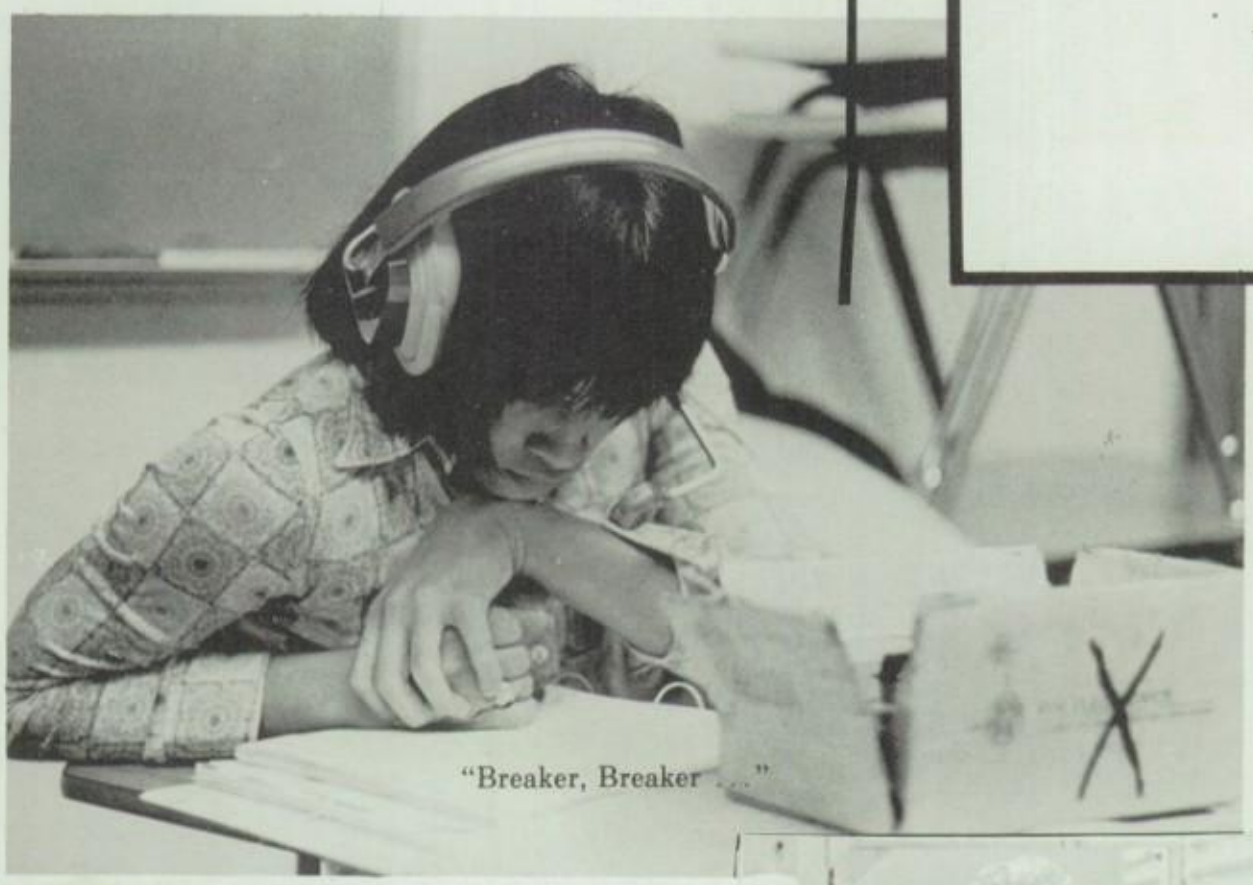
WHY CAN'T WE COMMUNICATE

WRITE ON!



"Breaker, Breaker . . ."

The need to express one's self is a necessity. Without the freedom of expression, an individual's mind would not be challenged. The way it's carried out is also important. It can be done through art or athletics. Writing is also an effective way of expression. Poets write ballads to depict certain events in their lives, or simply to teach a lesson that they have learned in the course of their lives.

As we progress, will we still have the enjoyment of expressing ourselves through the written word? Or will everything be done by the forth coming society? Perhaps we will have even more choices of expression. But even if we reach these heights, writing will still be an imperative part of communicating our thoughts. Speech is also important to communication, but a written statement is more lasting and, taking more time for thought, a better way of expression.

GET IT TOGETHER

To Doris Bilben, VIP

Once there was a fine ıdy who briskly barralled down the hall, bustin' everyone in birdseye view. But boogeying the "baddies" back to class was just a part of her bold class. Bilbening at Monty was never a bore, wouldn't ya know, always a big chore? Bristling and bouting, bubbling and bouncy, never was a lady who billowed with warmth and more. She bugged and bothered some of you, but just YOU remember, "Bilben the Bounty" helped build up our school. Bilben's not bionic but a billion she's worth. Sad to go, bad to go, a bummer it is. Bilben, begone if you must, but please always remember us. Bye Bilben. Blessed be you!
